The visiting nurse in Rutland answered 175 calls in three weeks.

The Burlington postoffice did the biggest Christmas business in its history this year.

Mrs. Julia Bonnan died at the home of her daughter in Bennington Monday of old age, being in her 89th year.

More than 1,000 children took part in the community Christmas exercises at Bellows Falls Saturday evening.

When Mrs. Laura Cole stopped at the Cole clothing store in Bennington on her way home from church Sunday noon, she found two strangers there, who made their escape while Mrs. Cole's son was after assistance. They left by the back door. Nothing was taken from the store and how and when the men gained entrance is a mystery.

On the 15th anniversary of his death last Sunday, a picture of Rev. Austin O. Spoor, a former pastor of the Methodist church in Winooski, was presented the church. Mr. Spoor was a veteran of the Civil war, a chaplain of the Vermont legislature and for several years the village postmaster in Winooski. The picture was a gift from his widow.

George Green, aged 81 years, died Tuesday at the home of his son in St. Johnsbury, as the result of a fractured hip sustained in a fall in his room a few days before. Fire in Dorset Christmas morning completely destroyed the finishing mill of saunders Bros., the loss being around $3,000. The machinery and all the contents of the building were a total loss. There was no insurance. The plant had but just meen completed, the company coming from Sandy Hill, Me., and business had not yet been started, as the owners were waiting for one small piece of machinery, which had been delayed. A new building will be erected at once.

A party of 15 persons, returning from the Christmas exercises at the Methodist church in Sheldon Friday night, were forced to stop at the home of A. L. In Thickness It is to the Earth as the Skin le to the Apple.

In a contribution to the year book of the department of agriculture Roscoe Nunn of the United States weather bureau compares the thickness of the atmospheric envelope that surrounds the earth with the diameter of the earth itself.

The extreme limit of the earth's at mosphere above the surface of the earth is estimated to be 180 miles. The earth's diameter is approximately 8,000 miles. But the density of the atmosphere decreases rapidly as attitude increases, so that three-quarters of the mass of the atmosphere lies below the seven mile level.

Thus the solid earth has but a thin coating of air, at most only about onefortieth as thick as the diameter of the earth, or if we consider only its really appreciable extent, which is about forty miles above the earth, only one twohundredth as thick as the diameter of the earth. It is therefore a mere coating, not thicker, relatively speaking, than the skin on an apple of ordipary size. When we consider the fact that storms operate only in that part of the atmosphere which lies within about seven miles of the earth, and chiefly within three miles, it is truly wonderful what mighty forces they generate and what vast energy they expend within that thin film of gas. A storm condition may cover one third of the United States. The disturbance may be 1,000 to 1,500 miles in diameter, but less than seven miles thick. In other words, the body of
